after the New-York engagement, we could yet have week for Fonthill

I am sorry your lotter and the asialogue did not ress me until this moment, as ? should like to have some at the Shahepearcan; it he now too late; but if you could end some the property of the state of the shahepearcan; it he now too late; but if you could end some the pays, pio Business here about the same as leaf year. I have had no more returns of the poin, thank flod; and an ac well as I can be, under the affliction of the theatt fend.

The Whitneys beg to be remembered to you, and they ere full of gladness, caused by the receipt of letters from their son, who is now in London.

From what paper oid you obtain that impertinent notice of the Fairmount boys? You tell me nothing shout your own health. Why don't you say something of that? God blees you, my dear hate, and believe me wholly your into lot, 1848.

When Mr. O'Coner came to the last part of the letter in which Mr Forrest ans. Englishmen must be suifed—a mider treatment would not do, —there was great haughter.

Mr. O'Coner—I now call a witness whom I shouldnot call, only something might be said by the other sided we did not produce her.

Miss Virginia Binelair was then called, and conductes by her sister (Mrs Forrest) to the stand. She is a ver mid, innocent, and interesting young lady, with a away cast of counterance and expressive eyes. Be is—niside stature and on homeoni. She gave her testimen with much earnestness. she deponed—

I am a sister of Mrs Forrest; I was fifteen years of against May; I am the youngest of the family. Q—De you remember the circumstance of Mr. Forrest and his lady going to Europe? A—I remember the think of the family of the product of Mrs. Porrest from England have you frequently she who were the person who made frequently she who were the first and was deepen in the library of contents of like the person who made frequently she THE FORREST DIVORCE CASE.

Superior Court.

Before Chief Justice Oakley.

AND 16.—Mrs. Forrest was accompanied by Mrs. N. P. Willie Miss Virginia shoulair was in an adjoining room. Mr. Forrest was in attendance, seated by his course. There were several ladies in court, who are to be called as witnesses.

Then Whiley (already sworn), examined by Mr. O'Conor. deposed—
Q.—Had you, at any time within two or three years back a conversation with Mr. Forrest, in which houses of ill fame were mentioned by him? A.—Yes, sir. Q.—What was said by Mr. Forrest?

Mr. Van Buren said he did not know how far the aspect of the case was changed since this examination was chered before, when the question was rejected by the Ceurt.

The Chief Justice considered the proper way would be for coursel to state what they intend to prove.

Mr. O'Conor. in contending for the admissibility of the questions and that he had a right to show, by this witness, a corroboration of the character of the houses where Mr. Potrest visited, by his own admissions. He had complained to this witness, that he could not visit a house of that description without being dorged at the heals.

Mr. Van Buren had very little to add to the objections he advanced when Mr. Whitley was formerly on the stand. As he understood the testimony of this witness had no reference to the house of Airs. Ingersell, he did not think that it was competent.

The Ohief Justice thought the offer made by Mr. O'Conor was too vague and indefinite; and unless the evidence could be connected with the fact of his visits to Mrs. Ingersell's house, it was not competent.

Mr. O'Conor was too vague and indefinite; and unless the evidence could be connected with the fact of his visits to Mrs. Ingersell's house, it was not competent.

Mr. O'Conor was too vague and indefinite; and unless the evidence could be connected with the fact of his visits to Mrs. Ingersell's house, it was not competent.

Mr. O'Conor then read the following:—

THURSDAY FORESTS

lam not so well, my dearest Kate, to day as I was for a few days part. I am suffering from severa headaches; and there I could endure uncomplaining but for the horror of going before the public in an assumed character, in which, as is the case to night, the blood will be sent to my brain with tenfold force. This is the planner of acting?

Mac had a good house the first night, but they have been falling off eversince. Last night he played to one half fill, and I see by the underlining he closes here to morrow, instead of esturday night, as he was originally announced. I write this in great pain, and in rome haste. Wagner begs to be remembered.

Your ever,

I will write you to morrow.

B 4.1

Baltimone, Dec 15,1845.

This is a warm bright, beautiful day, and I am ritting at an open window in the Lutaw House; and while I write, there is above me a clear, blue cloudless say—inst such a day as I yearn to have with you at Fonthill but that must not be—at least for some time. I am better to day, thank Ged. Haw much fine weather can raise my spirits, and how depressed I am by a dark and cheerless day.

The houses continue to be very good. Last night was a maker, and to night bids fair to be equally good.

Mace' closes to onight, against——'s wishes, who swears, I am told that he will not pay him, for having broken his engagement. Mac' goes to Richmond to morrow. I really have been of great service to him, in a pecuniary view. Since the publication of my card, the public is anxious to see him, and particularly in the past de waterbox, which he now gives with tours des feroes.

Wagner wishes to be remembered. Tell Stevens I received his letter, but have no wish to buy the Napoleon Gallery.' The catalogues have not as yet come to hand. With sincerest affection I am, my dear Kate, your own EDWIN. dily cente; Gentlemen one deliar.

The Swedish Astrologer.—Astrology and Geomancy; by a lady. Addressed to Dr. C. W. Robback, No. 6 While street, New York:—Prince of astrologers! for thee Lies open the book of destiny. Ringdoms and States to thy keen eye Their future bistery supply; and all the stars that about birth Are set to rule our tate on earth. Thou can st interpret, and aright Thou can st interpret, and aright Translate the linguage of their light. Descended from a line of seers. Prephets for near two hundred years. Raffe are thy gifts the size to ever. This do I know, for it was mine. To call upon the art divine—To ewn lite uso, its influence foel. And prove that it, indeed, was real. From a sich bed raised up, I ery To others, "Wherefore will ye die: "Though useless other treatment be, Try, ore too late. Astrology.
